Changing Shape of the Energy Practitioner Community Dr. Brian Dailey, MD, FACEP, FACFE

Cudos to the energy practitioner community! So much progress has been made over the last five years in establishing energy practices with a new level of professionalism. As chair of the National Certification Center of Energy Practitioners I have been privileged to observe these following changes:

- Eleven clear divisions for energy practices have been developed.
- Definitions for each specific division which illustrates different styles/types of practice that often have a different philosophical basis, have been developed and published.
- Minimum curriculum standards for each division have been developed.
- National certification standards have been developed by the practitioner community and established for each division.
- A sample licensing bill has been developed.
- A sample set of regulations has been developed.
- A bibliography of peer reviewed journal articles has been developed giving energy healing practices the evidence base which is so important today within the health care community and defining energy practices as a legitimate member of that community.
- Various organizations involved in the energy community have become signers on the Traditional Integrative and Complimentary Healthcare Declaration which supports and confirms the evidence base of our community.

As we move forward into 2023 I would like to invite members of the community to become involved with the appropriate division. Advocate for the community as a whole and participate in the further development of changing the face of health care for the better.
