

The Association for Comprehensive Energy Psychology will be hosting its Fourteenth Annual Research Symposium next year. We are accepting research studies and papers in the fields of Energy Psychology and Energy Medicine to be presented at our international conference May 29, 2025, in Phoenix.

Energy Psychology is a relatively new but exciting approach in the field of psychology. Over 200 published research studies, ten systematic reviews and six meta-analyses have documented the efficacy of these methods. We offer mentoring for grad students with thesis and dissertation projects, as well as our annual Research Symposium to present papers to colleagues from around the world. This is an opportunity for professors and grad students to conduct cutting-edge research while truly making a difference.

We are seeking original empirical research, randomized controlled studies, case studies and theoretical papers. New researchers, professors and graduate students are especially encouraged to present. The deadline for submissions is November 20, 2024.

For details see:

<https://acep-proposals.energypsych.org/research-symposium/>

Please send submissions by November 29, 2024 to:

John Freedom, research_committee@energypsych.org